All websites will reside on a brand new Windows 2003 reliable server with less than 50 other websites. Other hosting companies typically have from 5000 to over 50,000 websites hosted on each of their servers. This is important if any one of those sites should have a problem or script error that causes all or part of the server to crash, bringing down your site. Also, system response is generally going to be much faster than a server that has to serve many more web sites. This server is located on a Tier-1 platform - right on the main hub in Atlanta and the provider has a very good up-time record. For the Premier accounts on my server, I use Zone Edit for their DNS. That means, instead of the standard 48 hour to 2-week propagation delay time in switching a domain name over to a new server in case of emergency, it only takes minutes.
